

Abstract

A housing for a field device is provided, the housing including a housing part designed as a hood, and the hood 5 having at least one opening in the direction of gravity.